Dane County Turnkey Let the Vagrant Go and May Be Sent to Jail to Serve Out the Remainder of His Prisoner's Term, Three Days—How the Law Reads.

MADISON, Feb. 8.—Janesville officers have been freed from all blame in connection with the freeing of tramps. The two who came back to Judge Donovan's court before their first sentence had half expired, both admit that they were let out from the Dane county jail. In consequence District Attorney Leary has filed a complaint in municipal court against Jailed Frank Meehan, charging him with voluntarily releasing two tramps from the custody before the term expired. The law provides that "any jailer or other officer who shall voluntarily suffer any prisoner in his custody upon conviction of any criminal charge to escape, he shall suffer the like punishment and penalties as the prisoner so suffered to escape was sentenced to."

Meehan freely admits that he let the tramps go on a promise that they would leave town. They were sent up for only five days so that under the statute Jailer Meehan may be sentenced to spend the unexpired term of three days in his own jail under court orders.

"CUCKOO" RESOLUTION PASSED.

President Cleveland Has Force Enough to Coerce the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—After the reading and correction of the journal in the house yesterday the speaker and Mr. Reed (rep.) of Maine got into a parliamentary wrangle as to whether or not the order by which the absentees were recalled continued after the adjournment. The chair held that it did. The house took up the special order, which was the consideration of the Hawaiian resolutions of the foreign affairs committee, and the yeas and nays were called. The house again failed to adopt the McCreary resolutions for lack of a quorum, the vote standing: Yeas, 174; nays, 3.

When the vote was announced, 174-3, Mr. Springer raised the point of order that as there were four vacant seats in the house 177 instead of 179 should constitute a quorum. After some debate the point of order was sustained and the McCreary Hawaiian resolution was declared passed.

The McCreary resolution censures Minister Stevens' course, approves the President's principle that American interference in Hawaii is contrary to our institutions, and pronounces against annexation or a protectorate.

After the adoption of the McCreary resolution Mr. Boutelle (rep.) of Maine called up his privileged resolution, introduced on the 21st of September, 1893, which declares that the President has invaded the rights of congress in secretly commissioning a minister to overthrow the provisional government and the intervention is reprobated. The roll was called and the resolution defeated—yeas, 91; nays, 161.

After the Hawaiian resolutions had been disposed of Mr. Bland (dem., Mo.) reported from the committee on coinage, weights and measures the bill directing the secretary of the treasury to issue silver certificates equal to the seigniorage on the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of the act of July 14, 1890; and he moved to go into committee of the whole to consider it. The question of consideration was raised, but the speaker put the motion to go into committee for the consideration of the bill. The republicans refrained from voting and the result of the speaker's count was—yeas, 111; nays, 11.

The point of no quorum was raised and the yeas and nays were called on Mr. Bland's motion. The vote by yeas and nays was announced as yeas, 158; nays, 7. Mr. Bland immediately moved that there be a call of the house and the motion was agreed to. The call showed the presence of 254 members. This quorum disappeared again, however, and Mr. Bland at two minutes before 7 o'clock, moved that the house adjourn and this motion prevailed.

ELECTION LAWS REPEALED.

Stewart Alone Among the Republicans in Voting with the Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Senator Cameron presented in the senate yesterday a number of remonstrances against the Wilson tariff bill from industries carried on in Pennsylvania. He also offered an amendment to the Wilson tariff bill postponing the time when it is to go into effect from June, 1894, to January, 1896. It was referred to the committee on finance.

At 12:30 the house bill to repeal the federal election laws was taken up and Senator Hoar addressed the senate in opposition to it.

Mr. Gray (dem., Del.) replied to Mr. Hoar.

Mr. Allison (rep., Iowa) argued against the bill, stating that, as far as he knew, there was no public opinion demanding the repeal of the federal election laws. Mr. Daniel (dem., Va.) and Mr. Bate (dem., Tenn.) closed the debate for the bill. At the close of Mr. Bate's speech Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) withdrew the amendment heretofore offered by him and offered another, the purpose of which was to make the proposed repeal effective only to the extent of prohibiting the employment of deputy marshals at election. This amendment was rejected—yeas, 27; nays, 40. The three populists (Senators Allen, Kyle and Peffer) and one republican (Senator Stewart of Nevada) voted with the democrats in the negative.

Another amendment was offered by Mr. Chandler for the purpose of excluding from the effect of the repeal the crime sections of the revised statutes in regard to elections. It was also rejected—yeas, 27; nays, 38. Two other amendments were offered by Mr. Chandler (to restrict the scope of the repeal) and were rejected by similar votes.

Mr. Perkins (rep., Cal.) offered the amendment of which he had given notice allowing the election laws to remain but confining the federal supervision to cities containing 200,000 inhabitants or over, instead of (as now) 20,000. The amendment was rejected—yeas, 27; nays, 39.

Three additional amendments were offered by Mr. Chandler and were rejected—two of them without a division, and the third by—yeas, 27; nays, 39.

The bill was then passed—yeas, 39; nays, 28.

The senate then, after a short executive session, adjourned.

JUDGE JENKINS' CASE.

The Resolution to Censure Will Be Actively Pushed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Congressman McGann and several members of his committee will have a hearing before the judiciary committee on Friday morning in behalf of the resolution to impeach Judge Jenkins. Mr. McGann expects to present a strong case. He regards Judge Jenkins' decision as "a most flagrant outrage on the constitutional rights of the people," and he has no doubt that the committee will report the resolution favorably. The investigation will then be made and after it the committee will report whether, in its opinion, there are sufficient grounds to "warrant the presentation of articles of impeachment." If the committee desires more information than Mr. McGann can furnish, representatives of all the railroad labor organizations, from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers down, will be summoned before the committee to tell what they know. Of course, it will be impossible to impeach Judge Jenkins for an error in judgment, if it be an error, unless it can be shown that the judge was "influenced." Word comes from outside the city that an effort will be made to show that he was "influenced." His connection with the Plankinton bank failure will be thrashed over to prove that his actions in that connection were not honest, but Judge Jenkins' friends say that the thrashers will find, as the result of their labors, only old straw which was proved worthless long ago.

Question as to Legality of Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Mr. Call of Florida has given notice of an amendment to the Stewart resolution denying the authority of the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds under existing laws. Mr. Call's amendment declares that it is the duty of congress to enact a law indorsing the issue of $50,000,000 bonds issued by the secretary before Feb. 12, and prohibiting all other and future issues without the express authority of congress, and repealing all the laws inconsistent with the provisions of this amendment.

Chairman of Democratic Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The election of a chairman for the democratic congressional committee will take place on Friday. It is not known who will be elected. Congressman Forman of Illinois not only says that he will not be a candidate, but that he wouldn't accept the position if elected. Congressman Stevens of Massachusetts is a candidate, but his success is considered more than dubious. The probabilities seem to point to the election of Senator Faulkner of West Virginia.

New Anti-Option Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Farmer Hatch put in his anti-option bill yesterday, but did not succeed in having it referred to the committee on agriculture as he had hoped. Speaker Crisp ruling that it was a revenue measure and should go to the ways and means committee instead. There are a number of changes in the new measure which differs radically from the proposition which went through the house last winter and was amended by the senate.

'T WAS SO NAUGHTY
IT MADE A TUMULT.TWENTY BAPTIST STUDENTS ATTEND A MASKED BALL.

They Were All Expelled and Mount Horeb, Dane County Is All Agog Over the Sensational Affair—A Teacher Arrested and to Be Tried Next Saturday.

MADISON, Feb. 8.—Mt. Horeb, just west of here, has a sensation. A mask ball was given in the village and twenty-three students of the Mount Horeb Academy attended. The rules of this institution forbid students from going to dances; consequently the twenty-three students were expelled, even of this number being young ladies.

The trustees and faculty gathered the twenty-three together and during the progress of the investigation a teacher called one of the students a liar. The student thereupon got a justice to issue a warrant for the pedagogue's arrest.

The trial was set for 7:30 that night but the teacher was not ready for trial, and it was continued until Saturday, February 10th.

Great excitement prevails as the academy has been running only six months and was getting along nicely until this trouble occurred.

CRACKED TWO SAFES.

Daring Work of Dynamite Operators in Ohio.

LIMA, Ohio, Feb. 8.—One gang of robbers committed two burglaries last night and this morning, the first being in the office of the Standard Oil company, in this city, and the other in the bank at Desher, a small town just south of Lima. In both cases dynamite was effectively used and the sums obtained approximated $6,000 in each instance.

There is little trace of the men anywhere. A dark lantern was discovered a mile or two north of the town on the tracks of the railroad. The tracks of three men are also noticeable for several miles in that direction. There they are lost sight of and nothing more is known of their progress.

The greatest excitement exists in Desher and all the surrounding country, where the news rapidly spread.

The bank is one of the solid institutions of the county and has a reputation of carrying a good many dollars in currency. There was a vault supposed to be proof against all the crooks in the country, and inside of that a steel safe which was the pride of the town and the boast of bank officials. Green pieces of bank bills, lighter shades of silver and gold certificates, plaster, brick, and a vault generally dismantled and blown to pieces are all that remain of the interior, and the building is considerably damaged. The total loss to the bank is about $25,000.

It is a remarkable fact that though many persons reached the bank a few moments after the explosion none of robbers was seen, and their identity is unknown.

SENSATIONAL SCENE AT COLUMBIA MISS. TODAY.

The Rope Broke When They Attempted to Execute William Purvis and Spectators Prevented Further Action, Claiming That They Could Demonstrate His Innocence.

COLUMBIA, Miss., Feb. 8.—[Special]—Horrid spectators interceded for William Purvis' life when the rope broke as he was to be hung this morning. Purvis walked onto the scaffold with a firm step and was plied and made ready to die. The sheriff sprung the trap and Purvis shot from sight. As the rope straightened out with his weight it parted.

"The rope has broken" was the cry that was raised.

"Purvis was innocent" said a commanding voice and the crowd pushed up to the gibbet.

"You cannot hang this man" said their leader to the sheriff and the ceremony was declared off. Friends will try and have executive clemency extended to the condemned man.

IT WAS INCENDIARY'S WORK

World's Fair Fire Investigated By the Chicago Police.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Three different attempts to set fire to the Agricultural building at the World's Fair were made yesterday by tramps. The third of these was an exciting and dangerous success. The southwest corner of the structure was destroyed, the fire being confined there after a hard fight.

The flames were discovered by several persons at about the same time, 3:30. The fire department was on the ground in a moment, and found flames and smoke bursting from the dome which forms the architectural feature of the southwest corner of the building. The beautiful group of statuary, representing plenty, on its summit was just being wreathed in flame. The chemical engine, which was the first arrival, was taken into the gallery and the fight to save the building began.

The heat was intense. The thick roof glass became melted and dripped down like molten metal. The firemen worked in the midst of great danger of being struck by falling masses, flaming brands and sections of the roof. Still they stood their ground in the vain hope of subduing the fire from the top of the ladder. When the attempt was seen to be hopeless Marshal O'Malley gave the order for the retreat. The firemen had left their perilous position but a few seconds when the great statue over the corner tottered and fell inward, carrying the whole corner with it.

The first alarm was turned in at 4:21 p. m. and the second was not turned in till 4:41. It then became apparent that the whole building was in danger and the third alarm, a 3-11, was sent in at 4:51.

The blaze was under control at 5:30 o'clock and all but three of the engines were ordered in. One engine was kept for the greater part of the night and the firemen were busy in putting out small blazes which kept breaking out at points beneath the roof and between the walls of staff and dry timber. The space burned was 100x150 feet along the roof east and north from the corner. About fifty feet square of the roof fell in.

There were but few exhibits in the building, and the damage done to them was insignificant. There is no insurance interest whatever on the building or contents. The only insurance interest at the time of the last fire was on exhibits in the Manufactures building. It was small at that time, and has been reduced to practically nothing at the present time.

The Agricultural building is one of the largest as well as one of the most beautiful structures of the Exposition. Its style of architecture is that of the classic Renaissance. It is situated near the lake shore and almost surrounded by the lagoons that lead into the park from the lake. Its dimensions were 500 feet by 900 feet, its longest dimensions being east and west. For a single story building its design was bold and heroic.

The general cornice line was sixty-five feet above grade. On either side of the main entrance were Corinthian columns 50 feet high and 5 feet in diameter. Pavilions were reared from each corner and from the center of the building, the center one being 144 feet square. The corner pavilions were connected by curtains, forming a continuous arcade around the top of the building. The main entrance led through an opening 64 feet wide into a vestibule, from which entrance was had to the rotunda, 100 feet in diameter. This rotunda was surmounted by a glass dome 130 feet high. Throughout the main vestibule statuary, illustrative of the agricultural industry was placed. The corner pavilions were surmounted by towers ninety-six feet high, and above these towered groups of statuary. The design for these domes was that of three female figures of herculean proportions supporting an immense globe.

Marshal O'Malley, said the fire was undoubtedly an incendiary's work.

TEMPERANCE IN IOWA.

Prohibitionists Willing to Concede Points Favoring Local Option.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 8.—It is rumored that the members of the house committee on suppression of intemperance are preparing to introduce bills amending the mulct bill that is now before the committee. The men in question are known prohibitionists, but the amendments that they are said to be contemplating will incorporate the option idea in the bill. One of them informed a prominent member last night that he was preparing a bill that would add the provisions of the Hatch bill to the Funk mulct bill. The other man is credited with the intention of introducing the Harsh bill as originally drawn in the house in place of the present mulct bill. If the action as indicated is taken on the part of these members it will show that the house is inclined to recede somewhat from its position as in favor of mulct or nothing. The friends of modification are feeling much encouraged by these reports and say that they think there will eventually be a satisfactory result reached.

Last night's session was conducted exclusively by women of the alliance and an immense crowd was in attendance.

PAINT FLAMED UP AND BURNED NOYES

HOLDING A MATCH OVER OIL
RESULTS SERIOUSLY

Fire at the Janesville Hay Tool Company's Plant Results in the Injury of a Bookkeeper and Considerable Damage to the Contents of the Building.

The plant of the Janesville Hay Tool Company was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars by fire, water and smoke last evening, and Eugene Noyes, bookkeeper of the company, was severely burned on the hands and face.

This morning Mr. Noyes' burns took on a serious phase and it is now feared that he may lose his right hand.

The building is a two story frame and stone basement. The basement and first floor are occupied by the Hay Tool Company, while the third floor is used by H. B. DeLong for storing tobacco, Mr. DeLong having in the building about three hundred and fifty cases.

The Hay Tool Company carried a stock valued at about $15,000 on which they have an insurance of $4,000. Mr. DeLong has $8,000 insurance on his tobacco.

Mr. Noyes went into the basement to procure some paint for Mr. Clark. A. L. Berkness and Paul Johnson were employed in the paint room in the front end of the basement. Mr. Berkness had turned some paint into a can, and Mr. Noyes lighted a match to see how much he had. He held the match to the mouth of the can and there was an explosion. Mr. Noyes was severely burned, and Berkness, Johnson, and Clark endeavored to smother the fire. Being unsuccessful, they were compelled to assist Mr. Noyes out, and all had to run through the flames to escape.

Wanted to Care for Books.

With his hands blistered and burned Mr. Noyes went to work putting the books in the safe, anticipating a serious fire, while Mr. Berkness crossed over the street and turned in an alarm from box 515 at 3:40 o'clock. The fire department reached the scene a moment later. The entire building was filled with dense smoke, and it was with difficulty that the location of the fire was ascertained. The building is peculiarly constructed. While the stone basement is nearly all above grade, there is no entrance from the outside, the windows being secured by heavy iron bars. These bars had to be pried off with crowbars before the firemen could gain entrance. The damage to the building is very light. The water damaged the Hay Tool Co.'s stock considerably, while the extent of the damage by smoke to the tobacco is not known.

PROF. SPENCER AND MRS. DAY.

Strong Attraction on the Popular Lecture Course for To-morrow Night.

Prof. Fred. Spencer, Mrs. J. B. Day and Master Herbert Spencer will be the attractions at All Souls church to-morrow night. Mrs. Day is too well liked in Janesville to need praise. Prof. Spencer is almost equally popular. The Nebraska State Journal says of him:

"He prefaced his entertainment by saying that it was not his purpose to give a display of technical difficulties and diminished chords, but rather to entertain his audience. A line of musical specialties for violin and guitar was presented, among them several stories which illustrated the selections he afterwards played, some very amusing as well as instructive. All numbers were enthusiastically received and greatly enjoyed."

THE WEEK AT THE JUNCTION.

Ed Sowle's Baby Burned—Church Choir Entertainment—Personal Gossip.

MILTON JUNCTION, February 7.—Last Sunday little Fannie Sowle was standing in front of the stove when her clothes took on fire and in an instant she was completely enveloped in flames. Her grandfather happened to be near and he succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Luckily the child was burned but a trifle, but Mr. Hurd was quite severely burned on his hands. Prof. J. B. Bordon has received a teacher's life certificate from the state superintendent. There will be a camp fire held by the A. D. Hamilton Post on March 7th, at the Methodist Episcopal church. Major R. H. Hendershot, the "Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock" and his son, J. C. Hendershot are booked for the occasion. A musical and literary entertainment will be given by the Methodist church choir Thursday evening, February 8th. Those who took part were Mrs. J. B. Bordon, Miss Dona Thorpe, Miss M. Allie Butten, S. L. Crandall, Bert Butten, M. P. Baukin, M. O. Field, Joe Palmer, Mrs. C. S. Butten, Miss Dora Thorpe, Chauncey Osborn, Charles Clarke, Miss Lola Partridge, J. B. Bordon, Miss Alice Carr and Miss Carena Swaney. The object is to raise funds to pay their subscription as a choir to the church improvement fund. Elder Summers commenced a series of revival meetings at the M. E. church last Sunday to continue two weeks. Mrs. R. Hill is quite feeble. Orrin Ewins, and little daughter Ethel are both sick with fever. T. H. Butts is again quite feeble. C. Winch was in town Tuesday. Mr. Boyce of Fort Atkinson was a caller in town Tuesday afternoon. H. A. Saunders of Grand Junction, Iowa, called on E. T. Burdick Tuesday. Mrs. A. Hasinger of Lima, is visiting at her daughter's, Mrs. D. E. Thorpe. D. E. Bullis received a letter from Dr. F. O. Burdick of North Loup Nebraska. He writes that himself and family are well.

Gossip From Barkers Corners.

BARKER'S CORNERS, Feb. 8.—Miss Ella Barker is teaching the winter school in the Barker district. Mrs. J. L. Bear, Maud and John are residents of Barkers Corners during the quarantine of the jail. Mr. Bear and Rob were away from home when the small pox broke out. Rob is making his home with his uncle A. M. Glenn and the sheriff is likely to be found most any where. Ladies Aid Society meet with Mrs. Anna Cox on Thursday of next week. Another quilt will be made. The Grange hall still stands as innocent and independent as though no county board existed.

Events at Cookville.

COOKVILLE, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Mayo spent a part of last week in Evansville and Janesville. A spelling school last Friday evening at the school house, was the attraction of the young and old. Different ones are taking part in the play which will be given in a few weeks. Rev. Washburn, from Stoughton, will preach next Sunday evening. Miss Avis Savage has returned from Nebraska. About fifty attended the dance at David Johnson's last Friday evening. The whist club met last Wednesday with Mrs. E. M. Stebbins. Mrs. Electa Savage took the first prize and Mrs. Helen Richardson the "booby." The auction at Charles Davis' last week was well attended. Ed Newman is very sick. Miss Pearl Van Vleck is staying with her grandmother, who is ill. Our pastor, Mr. Murphy, being ill last Sunday, sent in his place Mr. Drummond, of Stoughton, who filled it very acceptably. Miss Ina Gillis joined the lodge of Good Templars.

THE use of the word "nut" to signify "head," though slangy, is decidedly appropriate, because the nut and the head are both valued more for their contents than for their outer coverings.

Milton Notes.

Smith Blaisdell died Monday night of heart disease. Deceased has been in poor health all winter but was not dangerously ill until Sunday. Mr. Blaisdell came to this township in an early day and but few are now living who have resided here as long. The burial arrangements have not been completed. Miss Grace Miller has partial facial paralysis and will be obliged to give up her college work for the present. Miss Miller is a thorough student and it is thought that excessive study has caused the nervous disease from which she suffers. Jack Rachford has been promoted to a freight conductorship recently. "Jack" is a good railroad man and has earned his promotion. A "Hatchet social" at E. Richardson's Tuesday evening is the latest in that line. J. B. Tracy and wife are both on the sick list again. Do not forget the Washington tea party under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the Seventh Day Baptist church next Thursday evening. "George" "Martha" and the rest "of em" will be there and an old fashioned New England spread will be served.

THE ASHTON CASE BOOMED WHEELER.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY STILL RECEIVING COMPLIMENTS.

Edgerton People Knew the Parties Well and Watched the Proceedings Closely—The Tobacco Reporter Reviews the Trial and Extends Warm and Hearty Praise.

District Attorney Wheeler has won high praise by his work in the Ashton case. The following is from the Edgerton Reporter, Edgerton people having watched the case with great interest.

"The trial of the Ashton murder case has afforded District Attorney Wheeler a chance to win laurels that has seldom ever been equalled by any member of the Rock county bar. Nearly everybody thought that he had contracted a big job when he undertook to convict Ashton on purely circumstantial evidence. The case was one of the mysterious in the annals of crime, and that a young lawyer with but a few years' experience in criminal practice should expect to convict a man defended by the ablest council in the state and backed by Daniel Stone's fortune seemed almost presumption. And yet Mr. Wheeler went into court with the assistance of his associate, B. F. Dunwiddie, and developed a case that surprised the legal fraternity at the bar. He was not only up to date on the legal propositions but conducted the medical examinations with skill that betokened great study. It was however, when he addressed the jury that his ability in presenting a case was shown. His argument was not only convincing, but an eloquent effort as well, surprising his most sanguine friends in a masterly appeal to the jury. W. G. Wheeler, your reputation is made; the people of Rock county are proud of their district attorney and the Reporter extends both hands in congratulations."

A GREAT DISTURBANCE!

Our Buyer After Bargains

A GREAT DISTURBANCE is being felt in the Hardware business! But still the stream goes on. One large stock of Hardware just arrived and two more to follow, bought at prices that will continue the dizzy whirl in the market for some time to come.

The storm in the hardware business has been gathering strength for the past two weeks, and is now about to strike the town in the form of three or more Bankrupt Stocks of Hardware to follow each other in quick succession.

Our buyer the "Hustler" is out with his scalping knife! He turns up every few days with a new trophy.

You know what we have done in the past. Don't try to imagine what we will do in the future, but come in and see for yourself.

These stocks are not old or damaged, but new, clean goods bought at bankrupt prices.

STALACTITE CAVES.

The Most Wonderful in the World Are Located in Utah.

Two of the most wonderful stalactite caves in the world are located within the territory of Utah—one five miles south of Tropicville and the other twenty-five miles west of St. George. Neither is remarkable on account of size, and to the best of my knowledge the dignifying title of "cavern" has never been bestowed on either of the two. They simply come within the category of wonderful because of the immense number of stalactites, of various sizes and colors which depend from their roofs. The first, the one near Tropicville, is known as "La Virgin," and the other by the name of the "Black Warrior." The Virgin was discovered a few years ago by the contractor of an irrigating company, who was also engaged in driving a tunnel through a mountain called "La Virgin Bench" for the purpose of tapping the river beyond. When the light was first let into this wonderful underground chamber the effect is said to have been startling, the roof and floor glittering with cubes and points of crystal alum and the roof studded with millions of rainbow-colored stalactites.

The "Black Warrior" cave is a counterpart of the Virgin and was discovered by miners at a point where their tunnel was 365 feet beneath the surface.

RICH FAMILIES IN AMERICA.

Astors and the Vanderbilts Control Between Them Hundreds of Millions.

A careful estimate of the wealth of the Astors puts it at $200,000,000, and this makes the family the richest in the United States. What is more, the wealth of the Astors is in such shape that it cannot but increase, for the reason that it is gilt-edged New York City real estate, some of which has within the past ten years increased in value 700 per cent and is still appreciating. The policy of the Astors has always been to buy real estate on the lines along which New York City is now extending and hold it for a rise, rarely selling, however, but building and renting instead. The result is that the Astor properties are in valuable lands, in brick, iron, stone and mortar instead of in fluctuating stocks and bonds, the fixed value of which is always uncertain. As a family the Vanderbilts stand next to the Astors in the matter of wealth, and their riches must be considered in the aggregate and in common, since their individual fortunes are pooled, so to speak. You will often see Cornelius Vanderbilt, the present head of the house, quoted as being worth $200,000,000. Of course he is not worth any such amount. Cornelius has most of the Vanderbilt millions, but those who know say that he is personally not worth above $80,000,000, if as much.

AN ONION LIKE A LILY.

It's a German Plant That Cures Colds and Heals Wounds.

In East Third street, New York, in the window of a tiny milk store, are rows of what look to be lilies growing in pots.

"How do you sell your lilies, ma'am?" asked a man who thought them such.

"Lilies? What lilies?"

"Way, those lilies in the window."

"Those aren't lilies. They are onions. The people buy the leaves."

"What for?"

"That's medicine, for sores. If you cut your finger or burn yourself, you take a leaf of that and pound it up so that the juice comes out, and then bind it on the sore place, and it is healing. Or, you take the leaves and stew them up with leaf lard and make a salve with it. It is very good, indeed. Then, for coughs and colds, you take the bulb of the onion and cut it up and put it in whisky with rock candy."

The woman showed the visitor that the onions growing in the window were different from the common American white onion. The leaves are flat, like a lily's, not hollow and tubular. The bulb, which grows almost out of the ground, is a green of the same cucumber tint as andalusian pottery. The plant propagates itself by little bulbs, which grow from under the parent bulb; it doesn't die down every year, but keeps green all the time, and it is not allowed to flower. The onion is not fit to eat; at least the woman said so.

"I don't know what you would call it here," she said, "but in German it is 'maerz-zwiebel.'"

That means marsh onion.

Scrofula, whether hereditary or acquired, is thoroughly expelled from the blood by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

BOSS WALL AS A CHERUB.

It makes even the mossbacks laugh to have Chairman Wall protest that he has no idea why Tracy, Gibbs & Co. should subpoena him, as he knows nothing about the roster jobbery. It is assumed that he will join in the chorus of the defendants and swear he is without sufficient knowledge to form a belief. The Madison Democrat suggests that if the chairman means to play the innocent dodge he should not swear that he managed the contest of his home organ to retain the official patronage and that he was at the meeting in the capitol at which the compromise was effected causing the Madison Times to withdraw from the contest. Of course he did not know anything about the terms of the compromise, but Colonel Clark told his friends right away that the Times was to have "a better thing"—and it was the roster contract! Oh, no, of course Mr. Wall did not know anything about it.

AN INALIENABLE RIGHT

It is one of the inestimable privileges of every American citizen to be a candidate for office, or if he does not want to be a candidate himself to make it embarrassing for some other fellow by mentioning his name. So it need surprise no one that quite a number of estimable persons have been named as possible republican candidates for city offices this spring, who have no idea of entering into the contest, or that a number of other estimable persons are being urged by their friends as proper and available candidates and are seriously considering their chances. It is not too early to give the matter consideration, and the best of timber is none too good for a republican city ticket.

Dushane Post No. 3, G. A. R., of Baltimore, takes a practical way of refruting Mr. Cleveland's statement that "thousands of neighborhoods still have their well known fraudulent pensioners," by offering a reward of $25 for the first arrest and conviction of a resident ex-union soldier on the charge of obtaining a pension by fraudulent means. That's business.

A Georgia paper calls the members of the legal fraternity who stir up strife in order to increase litigation "razor-back lawyers." As the razor back hog is the most worthless in existence the name seems to be well bestowed when applied to the shysters.

That Chairman Wilson, of the House Ways and Means committee, is a cuckoo is of course true, but it is very bad taste for the New Yorkers who had invited him to a banquet to publicly taunt him with it.

Representative McCreary, of Kentucky, must have had a very poor opinion of American intelligence when he stood up in the house and declared that Mr. Cleveland had never decided to restore the Hawaiian monarchy.

There is no truth in the report that Dick Croker was Rex at the Mardi Gras festival at New Orleans. The man who is king of New York would not care to play king for a day at a carnival.

Congressman Rayner, of Maryland, ought to have had sense enough to know that he couldn't make any friends for Mr. Cleveland's Hawaiian policy by sneering at "Old glory," but he didn't.

AN ENGLISH SOLDIER.

HE WANTS TO TALK TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

And He is Full of Very Interesting Reminiscences—He Tells the Story Which Interests Him Most of all.

Here is a very interesting story told by a man who has served in the English army, and knows by sad experience the sufferings of a soldier's life. But he has had a greater trial than even this. Several years ago he determined to come to America.

He has since become widely known throughout the city of Lawrence, Mass., where he has for several years resided, at 433 Broadway. He is a prominent Odd Fellow. This well known gentleman is Mr. John Mather and he expresses his feelings in the following letter:

"Fourteen years ago I began to have bad pains in the small of my back. I consulted different doctors but was unable to get any relief. My nerves began to give way under the terrible strain, and I went from bad to worse.

"I kept up as long as it was possible and finally was obliged to dispose of my stock and close out my business. I was so weak that I could not lift ten pounds and my hands trembled and shook as if I had the palsy.

"For two years I was unable to do any work and suffered torture with the pains in my back, which the doctors pronounced rheumatism. My nerves were in such a state that I could not take hold of anything, as I could not keep it in my hands, but would drop it.

MR. JOHN MATHER.

"I expected to die, and have no doubt but for the aid of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I should have been in my grave. By the advice of a druggist, I began taking the Nervura and at once noted the change. The pains left me, and my nerves seemed to be greatly strengthened.

"I continued taking the medicine, and soon my hands stopped trembling and I was able to go to work. To-day I am a well man and can do a hard day's work. My rheumatism is entirely cured and my hands are as steady as a rock. I have the greatest faith in Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and am glad to be able to give any one the benefit of my experience. I cheerfully recommend it, and am confident that it will do all that it is claimed for it.

Mr. Mather is most enthusiastic in his praise of this wonderful medicine, for it has saved his life. Think of it suffering everywhere, you who are bowed down with the sorrows of sickness. If you will but take this great medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, you will be cured. It is purely vegetable and harmless. Dr. Greene, its discoverer, is our most successful physician in curing all nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter, at his office, 35 West 14th Street, New York City.

DENIED BY RALSTON.

Reply to Charges in the Petition to Remove Northern Pacific Receivers. MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 8.—Yesterday Attorney Herbert Turner of New York read in the United States Circuit court the affidavit of President Ralston, of the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, denying charges made against him in the petition of the Northern Pacific railroad company for the removal of the receivers. William M. Cromwell of New York, attorney for the receivers, then addressed the court on the law governing the questions at issue.

When Mr. Pettit began the closing argument for the petitioners Messrs. Oakes and Rouse left the court-room. Mr. Payne remaining. Mr. Pettit had not concluded his argument when court adjourned. Judge Jenkins informed him that he intended to go to Chicago at 11 o'clock this morning, if possible, but if not he would remain through the day to hear the counsel. Mr. Pettit said that if possible he would finish in the morning and conclude the hearing.

Dullman's German Medicine Co.: Gentlemen I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullman's German Blood, Liver, and Kidney Cure. SORRY TALE TOLD BY A MAN AND WIFE.

TRYING TO GET FROM LA
CROSSE TO CONNECTICUT.

Kindhearted Janesville Livymen Took Pity on Them and Helped Them Along—Woman Refused All Aid That Her Husband Could Not Share With Her.

It was a touching tale of poverty and suffering that a forlorn looking man and a peaked faced woman told a sympathetic Janesville livymen last night. They were hungry and wanted a place to sleep. They came from Madison they said and could not apply at the jail as they knew that it was quarantined. The woman appeared tired and completely exhausted and the livymen's heart was touched. He volunteered to pay for a bed for the woman, but she refused to leave her husband, saying they had done this much together and she would not desert him now.

Upon being questioned the man stated that his name was Erastus Meehan, and the woman was his wife Emma. He said that his home was at Middleport, Conn., and that he had been working at La Crosse, but had been out of employment for several months, and that he and his wife were tramping their way back home in Connecticut.

Travelled Four Weeks.

They have been on the road for nearly four weeks, and by patient plodding and accepting chances to ride they have reached this far. The woman's shoes are well worn, but she refused all help where her husband does not also share. They were given their breakfast, and a purse was also raised and given them and the next few miles of their journey will be on the train. They left for Beloit on the morning passenger, saying that this was their first ride on a passenger train since they left La Crosse.

"The livymen's name?"

He wouldn't allow it to be used.

"That was charity, but I am no millionaire and I don't want the reputation of being 'an easy mark' he said. 'When I see some one who is deserving, I help them but no publicity is desired.'"

Even hearing Bob Ingersoll's lecture and adopting of the "pope's" theories wont keep that man from heaven.

BREATHED COAL GAS ALL NIGHT LONG.

FAMILY OF WILLIAM WELCH
BARELY ESCAPE.

All Were Overcome By Drowsiness Last Evening and Went to Bed to Sleep It Off—When Two of Them Arose They Topped Over to the Floor

Coal gas made a stir in William Welch's boarding house, 116 West Milwaukee street last night. The family and several boarders were playing cards about 9 o'clock and several complained of being tired—one or two of having headaches. They decided to go to bed to sleep it off. About midnight Miss Churchill, sister of Mrs. Welch arose to get some water and fell to the floor in a faint. She was picked up by others of the family who noticed that they too felt strangely but suspected nothing.

This morning the family were late in rising. George Wood, a painter for the Janesville Machine Co., got out of bed, staggered dizzily and pitched to the floor headlong. He lay almost unconscious with blood oozing from a cut on his nose. Will Wilkinson, his room mate, helped him back to the bed, but was too weak to do much himself and called to the others. It was then found for the first time that the house was full of gas upstairs and down. Nobody had smelled it and the wonder is that some of the occupants were not fatally asphyxiated.

Woods did not go to work today but remained in bed and Wilkinson, who is employed by A. H. Sheldon & Co., was compelled to lay off until noon.

HE KICKS ON THE WATER RATES

G. B. Whitnall Says Janesville People Are Not Fairly Treated.

EDITOR GAZETTE: When you offer to purchase the goods or services of a person and prices with rules and regulations are given, you are allowed to make your own selection and pay accordingly. But when you purchase water of the Janesville Water Company, they size you up and select from their numerous rules and regulations such ones as they think will yield them the largest incomes. You look on and pay the bills, but have nothing to say. After you have paid their bills for over five years they discover that another one of their rules if applied in your particular case, would draw more money from you. They simply notify you of such change, and alter the bill accordingly. The water is no wetter than before. Their superintendent says that discussion as to the merits of their methods is not in order; that the charges made against you may not be consistent with these made years previous or to your neighbor now. Their charter gives them such power and that ends the matter. He further says that the amount of water used has nothing to do in the matter. It's simply the accommodation they charge for. But if they calculate that by the use of a meter your bill will be larger than if placed on the "rated" cost they change the basis of calculation. It appears to me that the city of Janesville has been badly taken it when they made arrangements for water. C. B. WHITNALL.

SELF-CONVICTED IS THE PERSON

Who Fails to Profit by the Bargains Offered at Archie Reid's.

It will be but a few days before Janesville people will be able to get all kinds of dry goods at almost their own price. Geo. Simpson, the junior member of Archie Reid's, is now in Chicago, buying from the Jas. H. Walker stock of dry goods which is being sold at auction. Mr. Simpson writes the Gazette that he has bought an immense amount of this stock at less than half of what it is worth, and has ordered it shipped to Janesville. It will be but a few days until Archie Reid will have this stock on his counters and shelves ready for inspection. Don't buy a dollar's worth of dry goods of any kind until this stock is ready, as Mr. Reid will be able to sell you anything in the dry goods line at less than half what you can purchase it for elsewhere. FIRE POLICE ORDER REGULATION SUITS.

CLUBS AND BELTS ARE TO BE WORN.

Chicago Style. Uniforms Contracted For Today—They Will Be Made of the Best Broadcloth—J. H. Weisend Gets the Contract But He Had to Figure Close.

At last Janesville people will have a chance to see a man in police uniform without going to Racine or any other progressive town.

The fire police have set the example. The orders were given today and provide for regulation uniforms of the exact pattern worn by Chicago police. They will be complete with clubs and belts.

The committee were so instructed at last night's meeting. J. H. Wiesend got the contract and the uniforms will be the best that money will buy. The best indigo broadcloth was selected, and a 16-inch rosewood club and leather belt goes with each. The privates in the company will wear helmets, while Captain Evenson will have a regulation cap, shoulder straps and two rows of brass buttons instead of one.

A number of firms bid on the contract. If the city authorities meant business when they ordered the police to put on uniforms this would be a good time to say so. The city police can save ten dollars on a suit by ordering with the fire police. A good serviceable uniform complete in every way can be had for twenty-five dollars each.

(Copyright, 1893, by J. B. Lippincott & Co., and published by special arrangement.)

All that day the storm raged in fury; the levee road was blocked in places by the boughs torn from overhanging trees, and here, there and everywhere turned into a quagmire by the torrents that could find no adequate egress to the northward swamps. For over a mile above the barracks it looked like one vast canal, and by nine o'clock it was utterly impassable. No cars were running on the dilapidated road to the "half-way house," whatever they might be doing beyond. There was only one means of communication between the garrison and the town, and that on horseback along the crest of the levee, and people in the second-story windows of the store and dwelling houses along the other side of the way, driven aloft by the drenched condition of the ground floor, were surprised to see the number of times some Yankee soldier or other made the dismal trip. Cram, with a party of four, was perhaps the first. Before the dripping sentries of the old guard were relieved at nine o'clock every man and woman at the barracks was aware that foul murder had been done during the night, and that old Lascelles, slain by some unknown hand, slashed and hacked in a dozen places, according to the stories afloat, lay in his gloomy old library up the levee road, with a flood already a foot deep wiping out from the grounds about the house all traces of his assailants. Dr. Denslow, in examining the body, found just one deep, downward stab, entering above the upper rib and doubtless reaching the heart—a stab made by a long, straight, sharp, two-edged blade. He had been dead evidently some hours when discovered by Cram, who had now gone to town to warn the authorities, old Brax meantime having taken upon himself the responsibility of placing a guard at the house, with orders to keep Alphonse and his mother in and everybody else out.

It is hardly worth while to waste time on the various theories advanced in the garrison as to the cause and means of the dreadful climax. That Doyle should be away from the post provoked neither comment nor speculation; he was not connected in any way with the tragedy. But the fact that Mr. Waring was absent all night, coupled with the stories of his devotion to madame, was to several minds prima facie evidence that his was the bloody hand that wrought the deed—that he was now a fugitive from justice, and Mme. Lascelles, beyond doubt, the guilty partner of his flight. Everybody knew by this time of their being together much of the morning; how could people help knowing, when Dryden had seen them? In his elegantly jocular way, Dryden was already condoling with Ferry on the probable loss of his Hatfield clothes, and comforting him with the assurance that they always gave a feller a new black suit to be hanged in, so he might get his duds back after all, only they must get Waring first. Jeffers doubtless would have been besieged with questions but for Cram's foresight; his master had ordered him to accompany him to town.

In silence a second time the little party rode away, passing the flooded homestead where lay the murdered man, then, farther on, gazing in mute curiosity at the closed shutters of the premises some infantry satirists had already christened "the dove-cot." What cared they for him or his objectionable helpmate? Still, they could not but note how gloomy and deserted it all appeared, with two feet of water lapping the garden wall. Summoned by his master, Jeffers knuckled his oilskin hat-brim and pointed out the spot where Mr. Waring stood when he knocked the cabman into the mud, but Jeffers' tongue was tied and his cockney volubility gone. The tracks made by Cram's wagon up the slope were already washed out. Bending forward to dodge the blinding storm, the party pushed along the embankment until at last the avenues and alleys to the right gave proof of better drainage. At Rampart street they separated, Pierce going on to report the tragedy to the police, Cram turning to his right and following the broad thoroughfare another mile, until Jeffers, indicating a big, old-fashioned, broad-galleried southern house standing in the midst of grounds once trim and handsome, but now showing signs of neglect and penury, simply said: "Ere, sir." And here the party dismounted.

Cram entered the gate and pulled a clanging bell. The door was almost instantly opened by a colored girl, at whose side, with eager joyous face, was the pretty child he had seen so often playing about the Lascelles homestead, and the eager joyous look faded instantly away.

"She tink it M'sieur Varceng who comes to arrive," explained the smiling colored girl.

"Ah! It is Mme. d'Hervilly I wish to see," answered Cram, briefly. "Please take her my card." And, throwing off his dripping rain coat and tossing it to Jeffers, who had followed to the veranda, the captain stepped within the hall and held forth his hands to Nin Nin, begging her to come to him who was so good a friend of Mr. Waring. But she would not. The tears of disappointment were in the dark eyes as the little one turned and ran away. Cram could hear the gentle, soothing tones of the mother striving to console her little one—the one widowed and the other orphaned by the tidings he bore. Even then he noted how musical, how full of rich melody, was that soft Creole voice. And then Mme. d'Hervilly appeared, a stately, dignified, picturesque gentlewoman of perhaps fifty years. She greeted him with punctilious civility, but with manner as distant as her words were few.

"I have come on a trying errand," he began, when she held up a slender, jeweled hand.

"Pardon. Permettez—Mme. Lascelles," she called, and before Cram could find words to interpose, a servant was speeding to summon the very woman he had hoped not to have to see.

"Oh, madam," he murmured low, hurriedly, "I deplore my ignorance. I cannot speak French. Try to understand me. Mr. Lascelles is home, dangerously stricken. I fear the worst. You must tell her."

"Ome! La bas? C'est impossible." "It is true," he burst in, for the swish of silken skirt was heard down the long passage. "Il est mort—mort," he whispered, mustering up what little French he knew and then cursing himself for an imbecile.

"Mort! O ciel! The words came with a shriek of anguish from the lips of the elder woman and were echoed by a scream from beyond. In an instant, wild-eyed, horror-stricken, Emilie Lascelles had sprung up to her tottering mother's side.

"When? What mean you?" she gasped.

"Mme. Lascelles," he sadly spoke, "I had hoped to spare you this, but it is too late now. Mr. Lascelles was found lying on the sofa in his library this morning. He had died hours before, during the night."

And then he had to spring and catch the fainting woman in his arms. She was still moaning and only semi-conscious when the old family doctor and her brother, Pierre d'Hervilly, arrived.

Half an hour later Cram astonished the aids-de-camp and other bored staff officials by appearing at the general loafing room at headquarters. To the chorus of inquiry as to what brought him up in such a storm he made brief reply, and then asked immediately to speak with the adjutant general and Lieut. Reynolds, and, to the disgust and mystification of all the others, he disappeared with these into an adjoining room. There he briefly told the former of the murder, and then asked for a word with the junior.

Reynolds was a character. Tall, handsome and distinguished, he had served throughout the war as a volunteer, doing no end of good work, and getting many a word of praise, but, as all his service was as a staff officer, it was his general who reaped the reward of his labors. He had risen, of course, to the rank of major in the staff in the volunteers, and everybody had prophesied that he would be appointed a major in the adjutant or inspector general's department in the permanent establishment. But there were not enough places by any means, and the few vacancies went to men who knew better how to work for themselves.

"Take a lieutenantancy now, and we will fix you by and by," was the suggestion, and so it resulted that here he was three years after the war wearing the modest strap of a second lieutenant, doing the duties and accepting the responsibilities of a far higher grade, and being patronized by seniors who were as much his inferiors in rank as they were in ability during the war days. Everybody said it was a shame, and nobody tried to better his lot. He was a man whose counsel was valuable on all manner of subjects. Among other things, he was well versed in all that pertained to the code of honor as it existed in the ante-bellum days, and had himself been "out," and, as was well known, had but recently officiated as second for an officer who had need of his services. He and Waring were friends from the start, and Cram counted on tidings of his absent subaltern in appealing to him. Great, therefore, was his consternation when in reply to his inquiry Reynolds promptly answered that he had neither seen nor heard from Waring in over forty-eight hours. This was a facer.

"What's wrong, Cram?"

"Read that," said the captain, placing a daintily-written note in the aid-de-camp's hand. It was brief but explicit: "COL. BRAXTON: Twice have I warned you that the attentions of your Lieut. Waring to Mme. Lascelles meant mischief. This morning, under pretense of visiting her mother, she left the house in a cab, but in half an hour was seen driving with Mr. Waring. This has been, as I have reason to know, promptly carried to M. Lascelles by people whom he had employed for the purpose. I could have told you last night that M. Lascelles' friends had noticed Lieut. Waring that a duel would be exacted should he be seen with madame again, and now it will certainly come. You have seen it to scorn my warnings hitherto, the result is on your head."

There was no signature whatever.

"Who wrote this rot?" asked Reynolds.

"It seems to me I've seen that hand before."

"So have I, and pitched the trash into the fire, as I do everything anonymous that comes my way. But Brax says that this is the second or third, and he's worried about it, and thinks there may be truth in the story."

"As to the duel, or as to the devotions to madame?" asked Reynolds, calmly.

"Well, both, and we thought you would be most apt to know whether a fight was on. Waring promised to return to the post on taps last night. Instead of that, he is gone—God knows where—and the old man, the reputed challenger, lies dead at his home. Isn't that ugly?"

Reynolds' face grew very grave.

"Who last saw Waring, that you know of?"

"My man Jeffers left him on Canal street just after dark last night. He was then going to dine with friends at the St. Charles."

"The Allertons?"

"Yes."

"Then wait till I see the chief, and I'll go with you. Say nothing about this matter yet."

Reynolds was gone but a moment. A little later Cram and the aid were at the St. Charles rotunda, their cards sent up to the Allertons' rooms. Presently down came the bell-boy. Would the gentlemen walk up to the parlor? This was awkward. They wanted to see Allerton himself, and Cram felt morally confident that Miss Flora Gwendolen would be on hand to welcome and chat with so distinguished a looking fellow as Reynolds. There was no help for it, however. It would be possible to draw off the head of the family after a brief call upon the ladies. Just as they were leaving the marble-floored rotunda, a short, swarthy man in "pepper-and-salt" business suit touched Cram on the arm, begged a word, and handed him a card.

"A detective—already?" asked Cram, in surprise.

"I was with the chief when Lieut. Pierce came in to report the matter," was the brief response, "and I came here to see your man. He is reluctant to tell what he knows without your consent. Could you have him leave the horses with your orderly below and come up here a moment?"

"Why, certainly, if you wish; but I can't see why," said Cram, surprised.

"You will see, sir, in a moment."

And then Jeffers, with white, troubled face, appeared, and twisted his wet hat-brim in nervous worry.

"Now, what do you want of him?"

asked Cram.

"Ask him, sir, who was the man who slipped a greenback into his hand at the ladies' entrance last evening. What did he want of him?"

Jeffers turned a greenish yellow. His every impulse was to lie.

And the detective saw it.

"You need not lie, Jeffers," he said, very quietly. "It will do no good. I saw the men. I can tell your master who one of them was, and possibly lay my hands on the second when he is wanted; but I want you to tell and to explain what that greenback meant."

Then Jeffers broke down and merely blubbered.

"Hi meant no 'arm, sir. Hi never dreamed there was anything wrong. 'Twas Mr. Lascelles, sir. 'E said 'e came to thank me for 'elping 'is lady, sir. Then 'e wanted to see Mr. Waring, sir."

"Why didn't you tell me of this before?" demanded the captain, sternly. "You know what happened this morning."

"Hi didn't want to 'ave Mr. Waring suspected, sir," was poor Jeffers' half-terrible explanation, as Mr. Allerton suddenly entered the little hall-way room.

The grave, troubled faces caught his eye at once.

"Is anything wrong?" he inquired, anxiously. "I hope Waring is all right. I tried to induce him not to start, but he said he had promised and must go."

"What time did he leave you, Mr. Allerton?" asked Cram, controlling as much as possible the tremor of his voice.

"Soon after the storm broke,—about nine-thirty, I should say. He tried to get a cab earlier, but the drivers wouldn't agree to go down for anything less than a small fortune. Luckily, his Creole friends had a carriage."

"His what?"

"His friends from near the barracks. They were here when we came down into the rotunda to smoke after dinner."

Cram felt his legs and feet grow cold and a chill run up his spine.

"Who were they? Did you catch their names?"

"Only one. I was introduced as they were about to drive away. A little old fellow with elaborate manners—a M. Lascelles."

"And Waring drove away with him?"

"Yes, with him and one other. Seemed to be a friend of Lascelles. Drove off in a closed carriage with a driver all done up in rubber and oilskin, who said he perfectly knew the road. Why, what's gone amiss?"

When War Is Declared

Against a man's happiness by his stomach, the enemy may be pacified and brought speedily to terms. That potent regulator of digestion, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, dispels the rebellious organ thoroughly. Indigestion arises from weakness of the stomach, and the food in it, for want of the power to digest, decomposes and acidifies, giving rise to heartburn, flatulence and pain, besides a multitude of symptoms both changeable and perplexing. But peace soon reigns when the great stomachic is resorted to and used with persistence. Dyspepsia gives rise to morbid discomposure of mind and even sleeplessness and hypochondria in chronic cases. To the complete dismissal of these the Bitters is fully adequate. Liver complaint, constipation, debility, rheumatism and malaria are completely subdued by this genial medicine.

FOREIGN VS. NATIVE
FLYERS AS RIVALS.THE BREEDERS OF AMERICAN
HORSEFLESH ALARMED.

The Importations of Horses from Foreign Countries Destructive to Home Interests—Some Pertinent Suggestions by a Horseman.

SOME BREEDERS of good horseflesh are beginning to evince alarm over the heavy importations of foreign horses. It seems that during the past twelve months 11,400 horses have been imported at a cost of not less than $3,000,000. This has moved D. J. Campan, editor-in-chief of the Horseman to ask:

Is it not deplorable that a considerable portion of this princely sum cannot be kept at home, among our own breeders? There will always be importations of horses, but why there should be so many is rather difficult to explain. The larger number consists of the heavy-legged kinds, a native foundation for which has been wanting in this country. Certainly, the Hackney has helped to swell the number, but not to any great extent. Breeders of light-legged horses, of course, should ponder these figures well. But we might almost warrant the assertion that there have been more light-legged horses exported from than imported into America. Europe—especially Great Britain—has the highest opinion of the excellence—as to soundness and general fitness—of American horses. That has been time and again demonstrated. American breeders are as progressive as any, and they should study to supply whatever new demand arises for horses needed in the way of business or pleasure. Though we have no intention of detracting from the fame or usefulness of any family or race of horses, no matter wherever they come from, we say that it is perfectly possible for American breeders to turn out a product superior in most qualities to the Hackney, for instance. Through long years of persistent, intelligent effort they have evolved a type of light-harness horse which for speed has no equal. But in the desire to secure rapidity of action and purity of gait, proper attention has not been paid to breeding for size and beauty of form, as well. That these last mentioned qualities in combination with speed are not beyond the scope of the breeder, is attested by the occasional breeding and rearing of a horse possessing the desired characteristics. It therefore follows that the improvement of the trotter in size and symmetry is but a matter of selection. The means of attaining this end, of making the type more uniform, are to be found within the type. In short, the doctrine of the survival of the fittest which we conceive to be the horse pictured to the reader, should be acted upon by every breeder who seeks to improve the equine race which is distinctively American. Little alien blood is required to attain this end.

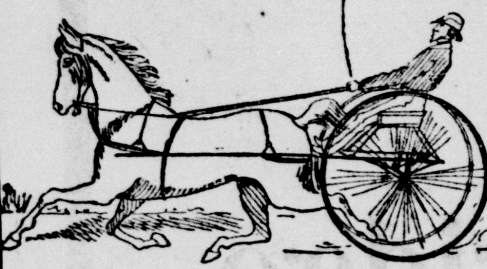

For years the United States has imported the various heavy draft breeds and to such an extent that further importations are not necessary. The American-bred Percheron is an improvement on his brother, and again, the American breeder has used the blood to great advantage in crossing it with native stock, the grades making useful horses for agricultural and general heavy work. If we wish to improve the coach horse, the blood is already here to accomplish that end. The best coach types of Europe have been imported, and their blood can be utilized in its purity, or judiciously mingled with selections from other types that are suitable for the purpose. Whatever type of horse is demanded for luxury or special use can be bred here. We have the nucleus to meet the demands of fashion or commerce in horseflesh, and the American breeder surely has the genius to create any class or type that will minister to the pleasure of the individual or the prosperity of the nation.

W. E. BURKE.

LEAFLET FROM HISTORY.

One of the Famous Trotters of the Year 1845.

The accompanying cut and history is from an old print issued in 1845: "Moscow was the winner in 1845 of four purses, which, with the inside bets, won for his owner $1,000. Also the winner in two heats of a match against Reality over the Beacon course, Oct. 6, 1845, for $1,400, mile heats, under saddle; also going in harness over the Beacon course (New Jersey), Oct. 13, against Lady Suffolk for a purse of $250, $50 to the second best. The Lady won the first heat in 2:34 and the second (by two feet) in 2:29½. Moscow starting twelve feet behind the Lady. Moscow won the third heat in 2:30 and the fourth in 2:34.

The Lady won the fifth (by thirty inches) in 2:36. Also winner of a purse of $300 against Lady Suffolk on the same course, Oct. 16, mile heats, best three in five. Time, 2:33½, 2:31¼, 2:40, 2:35. At each of these trials the best time on record was made for mile heats in harness. Moscow is a bay gelding,

16½ hands high, eight years old on the spring of 1845, the property of A. T. Dunham."

TRAINING A DOG TEAM.

How Canadians and Esquimaux Manage Their Canine Couriers.

Mr. Cameron in his talk with a reporter told of the dogs that are used for sledging during the winter in the Northwest territories of Canada.

Six or eight dogs are used on each sledge. They are fed only once in twenty-four hours, and that is in the morning before the start is made, and after the dogs are in harness. At that time about four pounds of frozen fish are given to them. Everything must be in readiness for the start, and the men must look to it that they are at hand to jump on the sledges, for at the very instant that the last morsel of fish disappears the dogs are off at a break-neck speed. Strange as it may seem, the drivers do not dare to feed the dogs unless they are in harness. Otherwise they would scatter, and nothing more would be seen of them. They are driven with one long rein attached to the leader.

A whip with a very short handle and a very long lash is used to urge them on, though in most cases they need no urging, for they seem to feel that the faster they go the quicker they will come to the post where food and warmth and a lazy life await them. They travel often as far as ninety miles a day.

Why Is It?

"It is a somewhat curious thing," observed a commercial traveler, "that even the most fastidious individual who will reject with indignation a tumbler that had been used by another diner at hotel, will not hesitate to drink out of a cup or glass on a railway train, although it may have been used by thousands of persons, many of them of not over cleanly habits. The same thing applies to the persons who use the ice-water coolers in public buildings or hotels. Why then should so much fastidiousness be displayed by persons at a hotel or other table as to the use of a tumbler from which a single person had previously drunk?"

National Airs.

The national airs of great countries are short, while those of little countries are long. "God Save the Queen" is fourteen bars, the Russian hymn is sixteen bars, and "Hail Columbia" has twenty-eight bars. Siam's national hymn has seventy-six bars, and that of Uruguay seventy; Chili's forty-six, and so on. San Marino has the longest national hymn, except China, which is so long that people take half a day off to listen to it.

A SMART TRICK.

How an Unscrupulous Jockey Doctored and Sold an Old Horse.

"One of the best tricks in horseflesh I ever saw played," said Eb. Wisner, a horse dealer, "happened in Indianapolis. There was a broken-down horse brought in an auction room. He was stone blind, his tongue hung from his mouth about ten inches, the end of it had been frozen and turned black, and altogether he was the most woe-begone, dejected looking specimen of equine anatomy I ever saw. He was sold for $2 to a seedy-looking fellow, who we supposed wanted to kill him for his hide.

In about two hours a man came up riding a horse with head thrown back, prancing as though full of life, and altogether a good-looking animal. He said he had just bought him for $50 and wanted him sold. I congratulated him upon his bargain and told him we could double his money for him. The next morning before the daily sale I went to look at the horse, and to my astonishment he was the same we had sold the day before. His eyes had lost the brightness caused by belladonna; he had forgotten the energy put in him by the ginger, and the red pepper pod which had been placed under his tongue to make him keep it in his mouth had lost its strength and that organ again hung low. With an investment of $2.15 the fellow had sold him for $50, and if he had not been in a hurry could have got more."

Vision of Insects.

A correspondent, referring to the curious fact that neither flies nor wasps will venture to pass through a window across which a piece of fishnet is stretched, asserts that the phenomenon is due to the confused vision possessed by insects. The threads of the nets give them the impression of a continuous surface, just as with us do the hatchings of an engraving that we look at from a distance. The animal believes itself to be in front of a more or less translucent obstacle, but one in which it distinguishes no orifices.
